TOTAL SYNERGY

Total Synergy makes Synergy software with a single focus — to help you through every stage of your built environment business and project management.

MacBook Air

Features

Our features are built specifically with and for architects, engineers, construction designers, surveyors, town and urban planners, landscape designers, and any other built environment professional wanting to deliver their best work, on time, on budget, and to a profit.

We know the three pillars of your business success are project management, project accounting, and project information and collaboration. Synergy software surrounds and supports you with the tools you need to excel in all three areas — taking care of what matters to your success.

Project Lifecycle

Everything architects, engineers, and built environment design professionals need to work in one place, with anyone, from anywhere.

The 3 key pillars of your built environment business success

Project management

Main Features

- Live project dashboards
- Kanban task management
- Predictive capacity planning

Put all your project information in one spot. Know exactly how projects are tracking at every stage. Monitor time against headway on site, labour hours against availability, expenditure against estimates, all while keeping everyone on the team aligned and focused.

Project accounting

Main Features

- User-friendly timesheets and invoices
- Budgeting and forecasting
- Integrations with leading accounting systems

With a single source of accurate, business-wide data at your fingertips, you can quickly pinpoint sources of profit, understand costs, stay on budget, raise invoices at any stage, get paid in any currency, improve cash-flow, and drive the success of individual projects in real-time.

Project information and collaboration

Main Features

- Transmittal and document registers
- Project portals
- Email management

Give your project teams a secure, online space that makes it easy for staff, contractors, suppliers, and anyone else working on your project to connect, share, and discuss the work that matters most to them. From wherever they are — no extra meetings required.

Synergy is built using the latest cloud technologies and agile development. This allows us to deliver software with a single focus for our customers, fast — we release product updates monthly that are instantly available for all customers.
